ADD DAVENPORT'S NAME TO THE LIST OF 'MOST WANTED'

Convicted of Murder of Policeman and Robbery At Hammond, Ind.

PAROLED DURING 1946

With "Slick Willie" Sutton, List Is Again Brought Up To Ten

By James Lee INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Apr. 10 — (INS)

The FBI has added the name of Stephen William Davenport, murderer and jail breaker, to its list of the nation's "ten most wanted" fugitive criminals.

Two desperate fugitives on the original "ten most wanted" list were captured as a result of an INS series describing the hunted men.

William Raymond Nesbit, killer-dynamiter, was seized at St. Paul, Minn., and Orba Jackson, post office bandit, was captured at Aloha, Ore.

The FBI credited the INS articles, which were published in the St. Paul Dispatch and the Portland Oregonian, and in scores of other newspapers, with leading directly to both captures.

Meanwhile, the name of "Slick Willie" Sutton, wanted for engineering a daring bank robbery in New York, was placed on the "most wanted" list and the addition of Davenport's name again brings the roster to ten.

Now 42, Davenport is a native of Keokuk, Iowa. He was convicted of the murder of a policeman and robbery at Hammond, Ind., in 1929. After serving 16 years and six months of a life sentence, he was paroled in 1946.

Three months after his parole he was arrested for auto theft in St. Louis and sentenced to the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary. Released from Leavenworth May 26, 1949, he was arrested for auto theft July 5 at Quincy, Ill. After confessing his crime, he escaped from the Quincy jail by breaking a bar on a shower room window.

Doylestown Treasury Is Enriched by Heavy Trucks

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 10 — Four truck drivers who are said to have had their vehicles overloaded, paid sums totalling $200 to Doylestown borough treasury a few days ago.

By the end of the week three of the drivers had paid their fines and another was incarcerated in the county prison awaiting financial help to pay his fine and costs.

In default of bail and costs, Raymond Walley, 42, of Dover, Del., was committed to the county prison by Justice of the Peace B. Frank Brunner, after being arrested by Patrolman Kenneth R. Tatt, for operating a truck carrying an overload of 9449 pounds the cargo being empty "pop" bottles. The penalty is $50 plus costs.

Burton Kie, of Vestal, N. Y., was driving a truck that carried an overload of 21,000 pounds of beer, when he was stopped by Patrolman C. Tomlinson, and placed under arrest. Kie paid his fine of $50 and costs before Justice Brunner.

Dean Dunham, of Elmira, N. Y., was operating a truck with an overload of 11,150 pounds when arrested by Patrolman Tatt. He too, paid his fine of $50 and costs.

Ernest Ragland, Leland, Miss., was operating with an overload of 11,210 pounds when arrested by local police. He paid his fine and costs before Justice Brunner.

UNIVERSITIES AND ATOM

Although the theory of the hydrogen bomb may be as well known to Russian scientists as to American there can be no doubt they would like to know more about how U. S. know-how would rig up a plant in which to make the bombs. Russian scientists and engineers have stolen most of what they know from American discoveries.

The dilemma of nuclear science is that of drawing the line between secret and non-secret data. What information should be kept and developed in the public domain, in academic and industrial research, and what must be held tight to the bosom of the Atomic Energy Commission and its laboratories? Not since the Middle Ages has freedom of academic science been under such restraint.

Nowadays opposition to scientific freedom in this country arises not from fear of pure science but from fear of militant communism. The fear is that communism plus the tools of science may destroy civilization. Henry D. Smyth, member of the AEC, concludes: "It is better for universities not to work on secret projects."

Unhappy he must be in talking like that in the face of these historic facts: It was the University of Chicago and Columbia University where the A-bomb was developed in the early 1940s. And it was at Los Alamos, supposedly under the most rigid military secrecy, that Dr. Klaus Emil Fuchs was able to operate as a Russian spy.

The irony of these facts only compounds the dilemma.

The best Mr. Smyth could do was to say he felt that the absence of secrecy in academic science was good in the long run, "because we have to have new men to do research." That just makes the modern scientific dilemma all the tougher.

TOWARD SOCIALISM

Another of the incursions of the federal government into private business that is being viewed with alarm is the rapid growth of government-owned grain bins. A year ago the government had enough bins to store 40,000,000 bushels of grain. Before harvest this year it will have 475,000,000 bushels of off-the-farm storage and is aiming at a total of 700,000,000 bushels. That would be as much as private interests own, aside from farm storage.

Commercial interests doubt the word of government officials that this storage is only temporary. In all probability the government, which already has half a wheat crop in storage, will keep the bins and add to them until it controls the grain supplies of America. When the government owns the bulk of the storage and the grain, it will make deals on a collectivist basis just as socialist England does—or Russia, Argentina and the other totalitarian countries.

Russia will lend China $300,000,000, which would be barely enough to buy up one year's surplus potatoes in this country.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Sept. 19, 1901. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published at Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The news of the sudden collapse of President McKinley, on Friday, was received in Bristol at a time when all her citizens were rejoicing in the prospect of a speedy recovery. Messages were received over the telephone until a late hour, telling of the sinking in the condition of the distinguished patient.

With one accord the citizens of the borough displayed the badge of mourning. From residences and business houses flags were put out, the national emblem being tied with crepe. . . . Today services were being held in all the churches. . . .

Tuesday was the last day for receiving bids for carrying the mail from the Bristol railroad station to the postoffice. Half a dozen proposals were made which were forwarded to Washington by Postmaster Minster. The mail is now being carried by Henry Rue, constable of the third ward, who will continue the service until the contract is let.

Captain Charles H. Fenton, the well-known river man, is the new pilot on the ferry boat "William E. Doron."

The Sisters connected with St. Mark's parochial school have moved into the new convent at the corner of Radcliffe street and Jefferson avenue, formerly the Whelan Home.

In compliance with his request, the remains of Mgr. Stephan, the venerable Catholic missionary to the Indians, were laid at rest Monday afternoon in the beautiful secluded cemetery of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament at Cornwells. The Sisterhood, whose mother house is at Cornwells, was founded by Mother Katharine Drexel, for the evangelization of the Indians and Negroes, and its special mission was thus closely identified with the cause to which the deceased prelate had devoted the greater part of his life.

Monsignor Stephan died last Thursday in Washington, D. C., where he had been director of the Bureau of Catholic Indian Missions since 1884. . . .

(Following items from Gazette of Sept. 26, 1901.)

ATTLEBORO—The school opened today with Misses Benita and Elizabeth Stradling as instructors. The attendance of scholars today, 44.

Thomas L. Leedom Co., carpet manufacturers, are building a storehouse, 140x44 feet, adjoining the mill.

Frank Lewis, who for several years has carried the mail to the post office from the railroad, is now an usher at the Bristol station.

William Plumb was the lowest bidder for the carrying of the mail from the railroad to the post-office, and has received the contract. . . . His bid was $210 for the year. . . .

The Consolidated Iron and Steel Company, of Bristol, advanced the wages of the mill men 12 per cent on Monday. The employees are now receiving the same scale of wages as was paid in 1899, the year of the great iron boom.

Nine hundred people assembled at the Methodist Church last Thursday evening to attend the McKinley memorial services which were held under the auspices of H. Clay Beatty Post, G. A. R. Rev. T. J. Garland, of St. Paul's Mission, and Rev. Theodore Stevens, of the Methodist Church, made sympathetic addresses. B. F. Gilkeson, Esq., spoke of his personal relations with Mr. McKinley, when the latter was a member of Congress. . . .

Owing to a misunderstanding of signals, Frank E. Bell's yacht "Helen" ran aground on the bar at the head of the island on Saturday. Captain George A. Shoemaker and crew, on board the "Trifler," noticed the signals of distress and went to Commodore Bell's assistance and towed the "Helen" off the bar.

Jesse L. Johnson, a well-known lower Bensalem farmer, died suddenly yesterday at his home in Edlington. The deceased was 80 years of age.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Undesirable Issue

Washington, April 10. THE foreign policy of this country should have no place in the congressional campaign this year. Yet there seems slight doubt now that it will be the chief issue. Mr. Truman himself has made that plain. With a record of almost complete failure for his domestic program in this Democratic Congress, he proposes, if he can, to convict the Republican party of sabotaging bipartisanship and aiding the Soviets by outrageous assaults upon the State Department.

IF THE President follows his present intention of making a personal political tour of the country, speaking along these lines in his effort to keep his party in control, it means an exceedingly bitter, name-calling, charges and countercharges campaign. This would not be good at any time, but in a crisis such as confronts us it hardly could be worse. Whether Mr. Truman is justified or not, some of his advisers are exceedingly dubious about the political fruits of the President's plan. There is, however, no reason to think they will be able to deter him. Since his 1948 victory, Mr. Truman's disposition is to give rather than take political advice. It is his firm, not to say cocky, conviction that in that campaign he demonstrated he knew more about politics than anyone else anywhere, any time. Considering the odds and the result, one can understand this feeling.

NEVERTHELESS, whether they started it or not, it is too much to expect the Republicans to take lying down the sort of campaign Mr. Truman seems determined to wage. To the allegation that they have wrecked the bipartisan foreign policy and to one that the State Department has been cleansed of Communists and the Democratic party has not profited by Communist support and affiliations, the Republicans have concrete and rather convincing answers. Concerning the bipartisan foreign policy, they assert that since his 1948 nomination Mr. Truman has proven himself one of the most partisan Presidents we ever had; that there never has been a bipartisan foreign policy, as the Republican—not even Senator Vandenberg—were never kept fully informed nor consulted before policy was determined.

THEY further assert—and with considerable truth—that Mr. Truman in the last two years, instead of making it easy for Republicans to cooperate, has kicked them in the teeth every chance he had, blamed them for a lot of things they didn't do; ignored such facts as that the Taft-Hartley bill could not have become law without Democratic votes; called them names and otherwise showed himself a politician without regard for the facts. Until recently he has had no good word to say of any Republican—except Senator Vandenberg—and his gestures, such as the appointment of ex-Senator Cooper, of Kansas, are meaningless and forced. In particular, they point to his attitude toward ex-Senator John Foster Dulles in his campaign last fall against ex-Governor Lehman. If Mr. Truman, it is contended, had been sincere about the bipartisan policy he would have wanted Mr. Dulles to remain in the Senate, where he would have been worth a dozen Lehmans so far as the bipartisan policy is concerned. Instead, the Administration, with his approval, threw its full weight into the New York campaign to defeat Mr. Dulles, joined with the CIO and the Communists in abusing him like a pickpocket.

AS TO the Democratic Communist affiliation and support, it is pointed out that twice—in 1936 and in 1940—the Communist party supported the Democratic presidential ticket; that the official Communist propaganda time and again publicly urged support of the New Deal and Fair Deal on the ground that their trend is "toward our goal," which is economic chaos and the breakdown of the American system. Further, it is asserted, the Communist-dominated American Labor party, which polls upward of 400,000 votes, is essential to Democratic victory in New York; that concededly some of the largest unions of the CIO, consistently Democratic from its birth, are controlled by Communists. And, finally, that the undisputed evidence shows the confessed and convicted Communist agents in the State Department were brought in under Democratic Administration, as were the large number of homosexuals, recently dismissed as "bad security risks."

ALL this does not make the Democratic party Communist-controlled nor does it make any Democratic leader Communist inclined. There is, however, plenty of proof to show that so far as the Communists are concerned they vastly prefer the Democratic party to the Republican party; that they favor Democratic rather than Republican policies; that more than once they have made possible the election of Democratic candidates; that the men through whom the Communists have worked in Washington have been New Deal Democrats, the most conspicuous of whom is Alger Hiss. All of this and more is bound to be brought out if Mr. Truman persists in making foreign policy the issue and accusing the Republicans of aiding Russia for the low purpose of catching votes. Senator McCarthy and his wild charges against Mr. Lattimore and others have little to do with it. Ultimately they will be forgotten, but the facts will not—and the Republicans have a lot of facts. No one with the interest of the country at heart wants to see this kind of campaign. Perhaps the Republicans will go ahead anyhow. If they do, despite Mr. Truman's knowledge of politics, restraint and dignity rather than name-calling would seem the effective way of meeting them.

to the best method of presenting it to a non-technical audience. His discussion was illustrated by the use of prisms and various types of lenses. He discussed the various types of lenses and shutters now on the market, and the advantages and disadvantages of each type.

GOOD EQUIPMENT HELPS TO MAKE PRESSING EASY

By Miss Frances Vannoy (Home Economics Extension Representative)

With the proper pressing equipment, you will get better results and the job of pressing will be easier. The clothes you make or the garments already in the family wardrobe will benefit from a pressing job well done.

A tailor's cushion or ham is essential for pressing the curved parts of a garment, such as collar and shoulders. The cushion is ham shaped, about 15 inches long, 9 inches wide at the other end, tapering to 3 inches at the other end. You can make a tailor's cushion, using these measurements plus an allowance for seams.

For the tailor's cushion use firmly woven muslin or canvas. Cut two of the oval shaped pieces, then sew together leaving one end open for filling. Fill with dry sawdust, packing it tightly. Join the edges of the opening with overhand stitches. The cushion will need an outside cover. For this cut two pieces of muslin or one of muslin and one of wool. Stitch together leaving an opening large enough to slip the cover over the cushion. Sew the open edges together. You may remove and wash this cover when it becomes soiled. The wool side of the cushion serves the same purpose as a wool pressing cloth.

Another aid to a professional pressing job is a piece of broomstick about 18 inches long, padded and covered with muslin. When pressing seems it helps to keep the seam edges from showing on the right side of the garment. For a sleeve pad or roll, fold together several thicknesses of newspaper or roll up a large magazine. Pad the roll with turkish toweling or other padding, then cover with muslin.

Add Davenport's Name To The List of 'Most Wanted'

squeezing through, and sliding to the ground.
The FBI warns:
"Davenport was carrying an automatic pistol when he was arrested at Quincy. He must therefore be considered armed and extremely dangerous."

A known criminal for 30 years — he was sent to the Eldora (Iowa) State Reform School in 1920 as an incorrigible — Davenport had done time for desertion from the army before his 1929 arrest as a murderer.
The FBI says Davenport has used many aliases, including Walter Bragg, Fred Johnson, Frank Parker, Fred Parker, and Steve Pasco. His description follows:
Height, six feet one inch; weight, 170 pounds; build, slender; eyes, hazel; hair, brown-mixed gray; complexion, dark; race, white; nationality, American; occupations, shoe repairman, carpenter, black-smith, farmhand.

Besides Davenport, the criminals on the revised "ten most wanted" list are:

Thomas James Holden, triple slayer, Chicago, Morley Vernon Kong, wife murderer, San Luis Obispo, Calif. Henry Randolph Mitchell, bank bandit, Williston, Fla. ing advice of CAA legal aides as to its conformance with the air transport regulations. The club will be chartered, and it is contemplated that its membership will consist of prominent Bucks County resident commuters with financial and entertainment world connections in Manhattan.
Associated in the venture as technical assistants are Charles Havill, formerly of the RCAF, now chief pilot at Doylestown Airport; and William M. Richardson, naval pilot-engineer. Operational advisers are Bernard Hughes, ex-RCAF, test pilot for Chase Aircraft in Trenton, Francis Coombs and William Schat, New Hope aviators, who with Hughes operate the river seaplane landing.
Air-line distance to Manhattan is only 52 miles, and a 20 to 30 minute schedule should be kept with easy convenience starting in late May with three aircraft.

Nervous Habits in Youngsters

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

WHEN a person three, seven, fifteen or fifty has a nervous habit which causes others to stare at him or make remarks about this habit, or which causes other members of the family to keep nagging at him about it, the habit grows more and more to be a handicap to his personality and peace of mind. Nail-biting, twirling locks of hair, facial grimaces repeated in the same way are samples of nervous habits.

In most instances nervous habits would disappear or might never have got started but for the unwise attitude of other persons. Naturally, the longer the nervous habit has been practiced the less likely it is to disappear. As most of these nervous habits begin in the early years, the older the person with them the more persistent these habits are, as a rule. Even when the emotional conflicts out of which they started have subsided or almost wholly disappeared, the habits still may linger — though it is difficult even for an expert to know just when such a time arrives.

"Dear Dr. Myers:

"My daughter who is now eleven chews her knuckles on both hands so badly that they are enlarged and sore. This has lasted for two years. I have consulted our family doctor, who advised keeping her busy. I have taken a radio away from her for a week at a time, taken shows away, appealed to her as a Scout, cut her allowance, but to no avail. She has been sick a great deal of her life but is better now. She is very active in sports and games and does well in school work."

I answered this mother. While exciting radio programs and shows may harm her, depriving her of them for punishment hardly will work. Punishment is about the last thing she needs. It is apparent that she is trying hard to rid herself of this habit. If all the rest of the family tried as hard to manage themselves as she tries, she would succeed before long.

You and her father and other relatives and friends have strongly entrenched nervous habits in relation to this child. Every time you have seen her chewing her knuckles you have had a strong unhappy stirring in your insides, and she knows it. Usually you have told her to stop and said it crossly or added some angry words of rebuke. And often at the most lovely moments when you felt strong affection toward her or were about to utter words of endearment her hand ascended to her mouth or your eyes fell on her swollen knuckles. Then like a flash of shattering lightning all her happy feelings and yours were destroyed.

If you and Dad could spend a week, a day, even an evening in her presence with no complete relaxation and self-control as to not notice her knuckles at all, you would be far on the way to help her to recover. But it would not be enough, just to quit saying a word about it. You would have to be able to have no unpleasant feelings. Of course, this hardly would be possible until after you had worked on yourself for a long period.

Cultivate more ways of relaxation in yourself, more ways of having fun and laughter in the family, more ways at making this daughter feel relaxed, comfortable and worthy as a person.

Huge Brush Fire Burns Over Twenty Acres Outside Morrisville

along Lake Morrisville, between Tyburn road and the Warner Cement Co., who apparently set the blaze deliberately.

The two were spotted by Falls Township Constable Watson and Police Chief Frank Kirby as they patrolled Tyburn road.

Fanned by a stiff breeze, the flames sped through the dry brush at breakneck speed, igniting small trees and turning the sky a brilliant red. The flames were seen in many sections of Trenton and along the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware.

The Fallsington Fire Co. and the Capital View and Union companies of Morrisville, sped to the scene, checked the blaze and let the flames burn out.

Approximately 50 firemen took part in the operations and brought the blaze under control before it could reach homes in the area.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Prepared for the Bristol Courier by the State Planning Board, Department of Commerce.

Recent activity toward the formation of regional planning commissions by counties in the eastern and western sections of the State emphasizes the important powers possessed by county government to assist local authorities in programs of self-improvement.

The power of county government in Pennsylvania goes back to traditions established in the days when the whole territory of this Commonwealth was included within the boundaries of Bucks, Chester and Philadelphia counties. The land on which Pittsburgh and Erie have been built was once part of Chester county, while an immense territory in the northeastern part of the State was included within the boundary of Bucks.

As settlement moved west the intense demand of Pennsylvania for self-government and local authority led to the creation of county governments and county seats to the north and west of the first settlements, and before 1800 twenty-two additional counties had been added to the original three. This process continued by a sort of nuclear fission through the division and re-division of the original counties until 1878, when Lackawanna, the youngest Pennsylvania county, was formed from a section of what is now its neighboring county of Luzerne.

Rather remarkable contrasts exist in the size of Pennsylvania counties. Our smallest county in land area is Philadelphia with 127 square miles, although Montour county, only three square miles larger, is smaller in total area, including water surface.

Our largest county is Lycoming with 1,215 square miles. Lycoming, Tioga, Bradford, Clearfield, Centre, Potter and Somerset counties each exceed the State of Rhode Island in land area. Bedford, Crawford and Westmoreland counties are also nearly as large as our nation's smallest state.

Since our Commonwealth is only one-third the size of California and one-sixth the size of Texas, Pennsylvanians are not prepared to contend that mere size is a matter of first importance. They do contend that inside the boundary of our Commonwealth, which the U. S. Geological Survey tells us has a total length of 983 miles, are to be found a greater variety of resources, a more interesting history, and a natural beauty more appealing to their hearts than anywhere else in the nation. But they would not be inclined to deny to any other state its claim to an equal admiration from its people. One of the most important privileges of being an American is the enjoyment of that pleasant and useful rivalry between states and between counties in a state which urges us all to constant efforts for public improvement.

RECIPES

RAISIN NUT COOKIES

2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine
3/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 egg
3/4 cups seedless raisins
1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecan or walnut meats

Mix and sift the flour, baking soda, and salt. Cream the butter or margarine, add the sugar gradually and cream thoroughly as you do so.

Mix in the grated orange rind. Beat egg well with rotary beater and beat until creamed mixture; if electric mixer is used, egg need not be beaten before adding. Add flour and mix well. Add raisins and nut meats and stir to distribute. Divide dough into convenient pieces to handle; chill rest meanwhile in refrigerator. Roll out thin on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut into desired shapes with cookie cutter. Place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a hot (425 degree F) oven for about 7 to 9 minutes or until done.

SHERRY COCONUT MARLOW

1/2 cup sherry wine
1/4 pound marshmallows
Grated rind of 1 lemon (1/2 teaspoon)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup shredded coconut, cut fine
1/2 cup evaporated milk, chilled icy cold

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Richard Ralph Mahnke, of Hatboro, and Doris Mae Dutil, of Warminster.

who have not yet made a contribution will do their part now," Sheronas added.

Hubert J. Horan, Jr., and Blackwell Newhall, who headed the branches drive, thanked the volunteer workers for their efforts in behalf of the drive. They also expressed appreciation to the thousands who made contributions to continue the valuable Red Cross services.

Five other branches also reported reaching more than 90 percent of their goal. Aldan Branch attained 95 percent. Mrs. John H. Britton reported. Wayne ranked sixth with 94.7 under Mrs. Brinton Dulles, and Central Montgomery had 91.6 percent. Chairman Ernest E. Cope said.

Wissahickon Branch, where Donald F. Conway headed the drive, reported 91 percent, followed by 69th Street with 90.9. Allison Murray directed the 69th Street campaign.

Other branches, their chairmen and percentages were: Swarthmore, R. T. Bates, 89.3; Upper Haverford, M. Gardner Talcott, 87.8; Upper Bucks, Bergen Herod, 87.6; Phoenixville, William H. McCausland, 87. West Chester, Theodore O. Rogers, 85.8; Old York Road, Henry S. Davis, 85.2; Oxford, Mrs. Wayne K. Price, 84.8; Upper Montgomery, Donald W. ## If The Shoe Fits, Wear It

When shopping for shoes, take time to be sure they fit properly. These sandals, suitable for late-day wear, have soles of flexible leather.

By HELEN FOLLETT

ON what sort of a footing are you? Have you a brisk, springy step; can you trip the light fantastic, never be conscious of a twinging toe? You are one of the few. Foot ills are the common lot. Let the afflicted one consult a reliable chiropodist and he will read her trotters like a book. Every little corn, every little calloused spot or ingrowing nail is that way because of pressure or friction. He will tell her precisely and exactly what is wrong with her shoes; he will tell her what kind of shoes she should wear.

A Specialist

If the defects are serious she should consult an orthopedic specialist, a medical man who has had special training in the correction of such defects. He is qualified to give advice on corrective methods that sometimes include surgery. The hammer toe, for instance, caused by sending toes into a huddle until one is lifted high above its neighbors. It is sometimes necessary to remove it. Fancy losing a toe because you haven't had sense enough to pack your feet in the right kind of shoes!

You can't go wrong when shoe shopping if you will remember that being comfortable and preserving foot health is the first step in being graceful. That means getting a shoe that fits properly, one that has plenty of room in the uppers, a leather sole that gives your foot the flexible support that it requires. Remember, too, that what looks well on another woman may be the worst selection for your own feet. Although fashion is imitation, for the best results in footwear do not emulate.

If your feet feel as if they were burning up, bathe them with tepid water to which baking soda has been added. Rinse, dry with a heavy towel, apply mineral oil, give them a five-minute massage.

HOUSE of THE MONTH
We have acquired a new plan service, namely, "House of the Month," to supplement and expand our present "Weyerhaeuser" and "National Plan Service" which we have been using for a number of years.

Each month we will have a new, modern, up-to-the-minute plan. Those who are interested in receiving a copy of this new home each month can do so by calling Bristol 863 or mailing in the following coupon.
